

All right! So now I have my very own instant way to throw up Tips, Tricks, and Tidbits of information.

As a warning to all whom read these, they may not be politically correct, the spelling maybe wrong, the verbiage will probably be in a language that's hard to understand at times and I sometimes write to expel feelings so don't take it to heart.

So with that I'll start out by saying. Welcome to my Tech Tip page. Your here because you most likely own a Victory Motorcycle. Congratulations as you have one of the finest Motorcycles built today. These pages will be a review of information from one liner's to mega paragraphs. I have a TREMENDOUS wealth of information regarding these bikes and I would like to share some of that with you. The reason I need an instant way to add tips are, well. My short term memory sucks so I need an instant way to add them as they hit me or I will forget.

The information added will be on a non-discussion basis. They will be 100% facts and as much as you may or may not like to hear them they will be here for your reading pleasures.

I hope you'll enjoy these as I roll them out.
